SPECIAL NOTICE.

TO THE LADIES.—Do you really intend to cease wearing the beautiful styles now so prevalent, or dress less elegantly, because the rebel Jeff. Davis, was captured in Fashionable Female attire? One moment's calm reflection will surely serve to change your rash resolve. The angels had too much good sense to lay aside their pure chaste robes of white, because they had for a time served to hide the deformities of that Prince of Rebels, the Devil. Can you err in following the example of Angels? Then having made up your minds that you will continue to dress tastefully regardless of rebel acts, do not forget to call at the store of the subscribers, who will be happy at all times to furnish you with such articles of dress as you may desire. Urge your faths, ers, husbands, brothers, neighbors and children to visit the same store. They can here be suited in good articles of Boots, Shoes, Clothing Material, Hats, Caps, Queensware and a general assortment of Groceries, on as reasonable terms as at any House in town. THE CROOKED FOOT-PATH.

BY OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES.

Ah! here it is, the sliding rail
That marks the old remembered spot—
The gap that struck our school-boy trail,
The crooked path across the lot.

It left the road by school and church,
A penciled shadow, nothing more,
That parted from the silver birch,
And ended at the farm-house door.

No line or compass placed its plan;
With frequent bends to left or right,
In aimless, wayward curves it ran,
But always kept the door in sight.

The gabled porch, the woodbine green,
The broken millstone at the mill,
Though many a road may stretch between,
The truant child can see them still.

No rocks across the pathway lie,
No fallen trunk is o'er it thrown,
And yet it winds; we know not why,
And turns as if for tree or stone.

Perhaps some lover trod the way,
With shaking knee or leaping heart—
And so, it often runs astray
With sinuous sweep or sudden start.

Or one, perchance, with clouded brain,
From some unholy banquet reeled,
And since, our devious steps maintain
His track across the trodden field.

Nay, deem not thus—no earth born will
Could ever trace a faultless line;
Our truest steps are human still,
To walk unswerving were divine!

Truants from love, we dream of wrath;
Oh, rather let us trust the more!
Through all the wanderings of the path,
We still can see our Father's door.

How Prairie Women go to Bed.

Some time since we published a graphic description, from a new popular work, of how young a woman goes to bed, which dainty sketch was matched soon after by some ungracious scribe depicting the manner in which a young man "all of the latest style" performs a similar act. The Fort Harker correspondent of the St. Louis "Democrat" now supplies a companion picture, as faithful and homely as an "interior" by Teniers, how a newly married young woman on the Kansas prairie went to bed, and how an old woman and the "men folks" followed her example.

We were an unwilling spectator of the scene herein narrated. Far from home, or from any civilized "diggings," were compelled to seek shelter at a ranche. In this rancho, built of adobes with a mud roof, lived an old gray headed man and his "ole 'oman." It must not be supposed that this couple were infirm, unable to move about far from it; they were no less active and ten times more laborious than the young man and the young woman who lived under the same roof. The rancho itself consisted of a single room, eight by twelve. One large stove stood in the centre of the room, and occupying precisely one-half of the ranche were two beds, one for each couple. The old woman, who was undoubtedly the mistress of the ranche, gladly consented to give us lodging. On taking a weeping look around this humble abode, we doubted her ability to make good her word. Now, the house appeared well supplied with furniture suitable for a ranche. There was a large table; there were large tin pans brimful of milk (for the ranchman had nine cows,) piled one upon another; there was a cupboard plentifully supplied with huge loaves of bread, delicious yellow butter and pitchers of genuine cream, loads of dishes and crockery, knives and forks; there was a chest of drawers, or bureau, well supplied with family linen, and household apparel. Under the table already mentioned were three tame fawns; under the stove was a cat; under the old lady's bed was a huge mastiff; under everybody's feet were about a dozen chickens, chirping, incessantly, while around them moved the mother hen, cackling continually, and before the door, strutting with a lordly mein, was a magnificent Shanghai cock. We have thus far been careful to give a correct idea of the families that lived in the rancho in which the old woman said we should find a lodging. Ten o'clock at night had arrived, and we began to observe symptoms of uneasiness in the old lady. We had been chatting continually from the hour the chickens went to roost overhead among the branches that supported the mud roof—from the time the dog and cat, and the fawns had laid to rest for the night, and it was now time for the family to retire. The young woman had been sitting in a corner, listening attentively to our entertaining stories, but on observing the weariness of her mother-in-law, she rose and retreated towards her bed. After a preliminary haw, and a slight hem, she turned her back to us, and first loosed the apron, the dingy strings of which encircled a form inclined to embonpoint. This young lady then took off her dress, which was made of calico, and perfectly innocent of the wash tub, and dropped it on the top of the apron lying at her feet. Then sitting down on an empty soap box, which stood at the head of the bed, she commenced to take off her shoes. She first lifted one lusty leg over the other, and a short space of time the shoe fell with a thump on the floor. She then rolled the black woolen stocking off, and exhibited to our view a foot white as snow, though flat and thick. In the same manner she undressed the other leg, and after rubbing her fingers between the toes, she stood up and prepared to take off her surplus clothing, which she performed in a jiffy. At her feet encircling her was a heap of clothing; rolling down the coverlet, after putting a frilled night cap on, she stepped in the bed, laid her full length, covered herself, took two or three uneasy turns to get a comfortable position, finally turned her back to us and went gracefully and calmly to sleep. It must not be supposed for one instant that we looked at her, oh no! we conversed with the old lady and the two men, but in the meantime we were helplessly compelled to watch the interesting proceedings from a corner of our eye in order to be able to give this accurate account. We now rose and left the room, followed by the two men, with whom we kept up a lively conversation while the old lady, who had closed the door, disrobed herself. On hearing a a voice from the inside asking a question about some cows, we entered again the precincts of the rancho; that was a signal which the old man, perfectly understood; the old lady lay night capped in bed, with her face turned to the brown adobe wall. On the floor near the stove our bed had been made. A solitary lamp lit the apartment. In a short time we were in bed—the old lady asked, "How do you find yourself Mister Man?" We replied, "Perfectly easy, ma'am." We now watched the men undressing.—Standing at their respective beds, they first took off their boots—then coats and vests; at this stage of the proceedings the young man blew the lamp out, and in a second we heard the pantaloons thrown off, a creaking of the beds followed, and the household were at rest. Three men, two women, one dog, one cat, three young antelopes and a dozen chickens in a house 8x10, lighted and ventilated by two small loop-holes. Such, reader, is a Western ranche. Next day, before departing East, the old lady commissioned us to bring her a pair of shoes for herself (No. 8,) seven yards of domestic and a novel called the "Prairie Flower," which commission we executed to her entire satisfaction.

MORMONISM.

A Party of New York Ladies Call on Mrs. Brigham Young, jr., at the St. Nicholas Hotel—The Conversation.

To the Editor of the World: As American woman, and as students of the social problem of woman's mission, it was with much pleasure that we learned of the arrival in this city of Brigham Young, jr., and one of his wives.

"Now," we said among ourselves, "now we may hear the phenomenon of Mormonism by people who, at least, know what they are talking about." "But how get acquainted?" asked one of the party who was young and timorous and pretty, and needed not to have troubled herself about woman's mission, for it was evident that her's would be what her mother's was before her—namely, to be early courted and happily married, and then to take housekeeping, and so on to the end of the chapter. But the rest of us—who, having failed in that early instilled ambition after a trial of several years' standing—were not to be daunted in ascertaining beforehand our probable or possible fate by such a bagatelle as the difficulty of getting acquainted. Indeed, we saw no difficulty in the matter. Conventionalities were made for common place people. People who had attained the intellectual altitude implied in taking an interest in a social problem were not going to submit to rules that did not include them nor apply them. And, besides, in visiting, we would be paying them a compliment, for which any of the numerous Petroleum family on the avenue would give us in net cash twenty-five per cent. on all the available product of their Pennsylvania estates for the current year, and consider it but a trifle for the immense favor of social recognition.

The party was stopping at the St. Nicholas Hotel. Taking seats in the drawing-rooms we sent up our cards to "Mr. and Mrs. Young," fearing if we gave the lady any recognition which her lord did not share that we would not be recived. The party was out, but was expected to return before long; indeed, was overdue already, and we were invited up stairs to one of the private parlors to await their return. After waiting half an hour little whispers began to circulate between us as to the possibility of Mrs. Young never returning. We had heard so much of the desire of Mormon wives to escape we just suspected she might avail herself of the sweet security of city streets to slip off from her share of a husband. One lady suggested that we might as well go, and then mentioned that we would know as much if we stayed, for if she really did disappear that would be proof that to be one of a number of one man's wives was not the true destiny of woman.

While we awaited with scientific disinterestedness for the decisive turn in the wheel of time, a lady entered the room, and was announced by her servant as Mrs. Young, at which we exchanged greetings. The conversation commenced by Mrs. Young saying that when she received the cards she tried to recall Miss X., Miss Y., and Miss Z., but they remained stubbornly unknown, and then she wondered who among her young lady friends of long ago had concealed their identity beneath the pseudonyme of Mrs. D., and Mrs. L., but then, she added, it is often as pleasant to make new friends as to meet old ones.

One of the ladies remarked that she supposed in her part of the country a lady's maiden name was never lost sight of in marriage. To which Mrs. Young replied, never—if it was we would have to resort to numerals to make conversation possible. There! we were actually on delicate ground, and that in the easiest and most graceful way possible. We watched the lady closely while she spoke, but could detect no soreness, no shrinking from the contemplation of numerals of plurality. Indeed, she was laughing gaily as she drew a little sketchy picture of what it would be in Utah if each lady followed the gentile custom of taking her husband's name to the ignoring of her own. We watched her with the most scrutinizing air possible with politeness, and had to admit to ourselves, again and again, that her gaiety was genuine. It could not be levity that inclined her to gaiety; her face, manner and conversation precluded any thought of that. She looked about thirty years old, but possibly was not over twenty-five—her life as a pioneer, as a fugitive, as a wife, and the mother of seven children, giving her an experience which might have her look fifty years old, but which succeeded, owing to her natural buoyancy of heart, in making her look only thirty. She was dressed in a striped gray and white travelling suit, and looked fresh and cool as a dew drop, which was a revelation in itself, for the day was the sultriest of the season, and it almost made one faint to look at the hot, fixy, overdressed women—we cannot call them ladies, for ladies know instinctively how to dress—who were promenading Broadway. Her figure was lithe and elegant-looking; her face very strong in repose, and very mobile in conversation; her manner a union of timidity and equipoise that was very pleasing. Altogether she looked lady-like and motherly and pre-eminently wifely.

Now this wife question being the one we are particularly interested in, in fact the one object of our visit, we made the best of our opportunity of putting questions, "Now, Mrs. Young, did you ever see a wife really, truly, unmistakably happy who had to share her husband's affections with another woman or other women?" we asked, in a tone of great eagerness. She playfully said something about real, true, unalloyed, unmitigated happiness being a rare and exceptional thing.

Was she a diplomatist? was that the way of turning our attention from the subject in hand? Further conversation proved not. She asked, have all the married gentlemen of your acquaintance blind to all the beauty lying about them, or are they proof against it, and do they all live beautiful, exclusive lives?" Of course we admitted the little polygamic tendencies of gentlemen in society—how could we do otherwise, when it is so well known? She asked. "Do their wives know it?" "Yes, sometimes it comes to light; often they suspect it when it is not proven; but then what they don't know don't hurt them." "Do you think that?" We think that everything that hurts the husband hurts a true wife, and none of you will surely maintain that it does not injure a man morally to be guilty of deceit—of systematic and sustained falsehood. We think that it would affect even his children's children, and his furthest neighbors, for not only has every act its rays of influence, but his moral attitude is affecting others for good or evil, whether he sleeps or whether he plows. Now, inasmuch as man is not exclusive in his tastes—and it is for wise reasons that he is not so—we must not try to make him conform to our idea of his needs or his destiny at the risk of making him so weak as to give in to us, or so mean as to deceive us." "But man mustn't make us conform to his ideas of our needs and our destiny," said the pretty little miss whom we referred to before. "Man does not do it, my dear," replied Mrs. Young. "Woman's sphere is destined by nature. The civilizations of the world are unanimous on that point, no matter on what else they may differ; her sphere is power; her destiny to replenish the earth: This, if women would only realize it, is a high and noble destiny. It is the one ambition of the Mormon wife to be a mother in Israel. Our children are all pledges of love to our husbands, and jewels in our crowns of honor as wives."

"But, are not the wives of one man often jealous of each other?" asks the irrepressible young miss. "Sometimes; but it is not a feature of our domestic life," madame replies. "The wives of each household are as sisters—sisters in family and in faith. They sometimes indulge in little playful rivalries as to who will get the first kiss, or who can pull him or coax him away from the others; but as a rule they always give precedence to the first wife. The ladies of every gentleman's household are not only affectionate one to another, but they are courteous to a point of etiquette not often witnessed among the ladies of our best society here."

One of the ladies asked if their politeness was not the result of despair—if they were not so "subdued" that acquiescence to everything or anything was natural. She replied that they all entered the state of matrimony knowingly; that no force or persuasion, beyond what lovers were wont to employ all the world over, was ever brought to bear on any one; that the demeanor of women was about the same after that it was before marriage; if it was subdued first, it, as a rule, continued so, if the woman remained without children; if she became a mother, she was very likely to assert herself. That life in a community of industry like theirs was not just the one calculated for sentimental moodiness and saint-like, subdued airs. They were too particular for that; and besides the only women who might at all feel themselves injured were the first wives of converts, to whom the thing was strange, and who, preparatory to leaving their own country, made their husbands promise that they would never take unto themselves any other wives. These men, under increased light, and sustained by public sentiment, and led on by public example, often insisted on their rights, and so convinced their wives as to make them willing; but it was but natural to suppose that among such diversity of people and of nations, some of them, not so well grounded in the faith, would afterwards regret having given their consent—but even their regret wore off in time. On the whole, take the Mormon settlements through and through, they presented a greater amount of happiness than did gentile settlements of equal or greater advantages. The cause of this was doubtless three fold—first, that the people were united religiously; secondly, the households were individually so united; thirdly, the public opportunities for amusement, recreation, and exercise are so great, and are made so prominent. The theatre is a place of nightly resort. The school occupy a good deal of the time and attention of the people, for children are a "feature" of the place. The bathing, horse racing, and social visiting comes in, and attending lectures, going to church, boating, and hunting buffalo and deer—all consume much time, and leave their moral and physical influence. All the ladies in Utah ride; the wealthiest ones sport on the avenue with four in hand; some even manage a tandem team. Every man of means keeps a horse and carriage, or a carriage and pair, and a saddle-horse for the benefit of his wives, who own it day about."

Concerning herself, the lady said—and she was so modest we could not get her to speak of herself half enough—but she did say that she was just on her way home after a five years stay in Europe, during which time her two youngest children were born, and where she had her husband all to herself—but she counted the days that must elapse before she could get to her beautiful home beyond the mountains. Yet on her very arrival other wives would run to her husband for love, would clamor playfully but pertinaciously and eagerly for attention, and that he could not be a bit more glad to seem them than she will be.

Then we went to see the babies—one two years and a half old, the other but a few months; there they lay like twin lilies sleeping, the happy mother bent above them blessing them. Promising to call again before she left the city we departed. She left to-day with a company five hundred strong to cross the plains to her ultra-montane home. We did not see her again, but send her this tribute of our appreciation.

A Young Minister Hugged Against His Will.

A most ludicrous scene transpired in a place not a thousand miles from the city of Louisville, one night recently, which, though a little annoying to the parties immediately concerned, was yet so innocent and funny that we cannot refrain from giving the general outlines, suppressing names of course.

Two sprightly and beautiful young ladies were visiting their cousin, another sprightly and beautiful young lady, who, like her guests, was of that happy age which turns everything into fun and merriment. If the truth were told we fear that we would have to record the fact that these three young misses were just a little bit fast. They were fond of practical jokes, and were continually playing all sorts of mad pranks with each other. All three occupied a room on the ground floor, and cuddled up together in one bed.

Two of the young ladies attended a party on the night in question, and did not get home till half past twelve o'clock at night. As it was late they concluded not to disturb the household, so they quietly stepped into their room through the low open window.

In about half an hour after they had left for the party a young Methodist minister called at the house where they were staying and craved a night's lodging, which of course was cheerfully granted. As ministers always have the best of everything, the old lady put him to sleep in the best room, and the young lady (Fannie) who had not gone to the party, was entrusted to the duty of sitting up for the absent ones and of informing them of the change of rooms. She took up her post in the parlor, and as the night was sultry, sleep overcame her, and she departed on an excursion to the land of dreams.

We will now return to the young ladies who had gone into their room through the window. By the dim light of the moon-beams as they struggled through the curtains, the young ladies were enabled to descry the outline of Fannie (as they supposed) ensconced in the middle of the bed. They saw more, to-wit—a pair of boots. The truth flashed upon them both at once. They saw it all. Fannie had set them in the room to give them a good scare. They put their heads together and determined to turn the tables on her. Presently they disrobed, and stealthily as cats they took their position at each side of the bed. At the given sign both jumped into bed, one on each side of the unconscious parson, screaming, "Oh, what a man!" They gave the bewildered minister such a promiscuous hugging and tousling as few persons are able to brag of in the course of a lifetime.

The noise of this proceeding awoke the old lady, who was sleeping in an adjoining room. She comprehended the situation at once, and rushing to the room she opened the door and exclaimed! "My God, gals, it is a man; it is a man sure enough!"

There was one prolonged, consolidated scream; a flash of muslin through the door, and all was over.

The best thing of the joke is the minister took the whole thing in earnest. He would listen to no apologies the old lady could make for the girls. He would hear no excuse, but he solemnly folded his clerical robes around him and silently stole away.

Query—was he mad at the girls, or—at the old woman?

☞ It is thought that the trial of Surratt will cost the Government not less than $50,000; and if the jury does not agree as is thought probable, what will have been accomplished.

☞ "The question of negro suffrage is not an issue in the coming political contest"—an old song of negro suffrage advocates, and yet it is, step by step, being snaked upon the people by the successful candidates of the radical party.

THE VOTE.—Parson Brownlow is re-elected. The following is about the way the vote stood:

Brownlow's white vote,	13,000
Brownlow's negro vote,	56,600
		69,600
Etheridge's white vote,		36,000
Brownlow's majority,		33,600

THE Asiatic cholera, in its most fatal form, is steadily and resistlessly moving eastward. The epidemic scourge commenced its march on the far western boundaries of Kansas, and has already gained the banks of the Mississippi. At Memphis, its farthest eastern point, it is known to be raging with virulence. The daily papers there have ceased to mention its ravages, but it is rumored that for the last week the deaths have numbered as high as fifty a day.

THE TENNESSEE ELECTION.—The Tennessee election on Thursday last passed off quietly. Parson Brownlow was elected Governor by about 30,000 majority. The radical vote was swelled by the colored population, many of them too ignorant to know what a Governor is, and some perhaps superstitious enough to believe that their ballots were the sacred passports to heaven. A Republican paper gives the following account of the voting of the blacks:

No child was more pleased with a toy than the negro with the ballot. Stoically patient, he broiled for hours in the hot sun awaiting his turn, each face radiant with delight, and each hand nervously clutching the ballot of the freedman. The race was represented by all the ages of manhood, from the sprucest city boy to the venerable white-haired field-hand, who was barely able to hobble to the polls, and who seemed as if about to deposit his ballot for the first and last time of his life; and all shades were present, from the unmitigated blackness of the Congo to the fair whiteness of the Octoroon, who might lay claim to be wholly Caucasian.

The challengers of the conservatives acted impartially in their duties. They did not seem to manifest any improper desire to impede the voting. Where they knew the voter to be qualified they even assisted him to a prompt deposit of his ballot. When it was necessary to question the voter, the well known ignorance of the African as to dates and time was illustrated; all were over twenty-one years of age, according to what they were told by their parents and relatives; but not one in a dozen could name his birthday.

What Greeley Thinks of it.

Horace as well as some other prominent Republicans in this State, don't think well of the manner the State Central Committee have commenced the campaign. In a late number of the Tribune Horace says:

We cannot endorse the address of the Republican State Committee, in which Judge Sharswood is attacked with more zeal than discretion. He is denounced as the orator of a States rights celebration, held in the dark ages of 1834, as if an act of 39 years ago could have vital meaning now. The very toasts offered by others at the dinner in 1831 are quoted to show that Judge Sharswood is not fit for the office of Chief Justice, and the editorials of obscure papers are copied in capital letters, as proof of his sympathy with the rebellion. The case of Berie against Trott, in which Judge Sharswood decided against the constitutional power of Congress to make paper money, is also advanced as an argument against his election—a purely legal decision, which, whether right or wrong, was made solely upon Judge Sharswood's understanding of the law.

We submit that this is not the way in which Pennsylvania should elect her chief judicial officers. Such a canvass should be conducted on the highest ground possible in party rivalry, and especial care should be taken not to drag in the dirt the ermine of justice. The formal decisions of eminent judges upon the points of law ought not to be bandied about in appeals to popular passion. The purity and honor of the judiciary are more than a party triumph. If the decisions of a court are to be the subject of party strife, and debated in stump speeches, we may bid farewell to an independent and fearless judiciary. Hold the judge accountable to a political party for his construction of the law, and we inevitably tempt him to sacrifice his integrity; to become that meanest of all creatures—a sworn minister of justice, obedient to the dictates of politicians. It is precisely this tendency which we fear the Republican State Committee of Pennsylvania unconsciously encourage, and we would bid them take warning by the wretched and degraded reputation of the judiciary of this city, in which the courts have become the mere tools of political clubs.

Adulterations of Food.

The times and principles of men are so out of joint, that when we sit down to a table the chances are ten to one that we will not eat some substantial, healthful edible, as we may suppose. Eggs have not yet been counterfeited; but as to milk; is there any in our large cities that is not a mixture? A hundred mixtures make our ground coffee; and our tea, to a great extent, is made over after it has been used at the tables of hotels. There is a substance called terra alba, or white earth, brought from Ireland, and sold for two and a half cents a pound, which enters largely into many of our confections. When sugar costs from fifteen to twenty cents a pound, the temptation to adulterate with this stuff is scarcely to be resisted by unprincipled shopkeepers. The body of candies and the coating of lozonges and almonds are made of this in many cases, as it is whiter than plaster, and is largely used in the adulteration of flour. In one ounce of lozenges, two-thirds of the weight, when dissolved in water, was nothing but this white earth. Gumarabic is too costly for pure gum-drops to be made to advantage, so a substitute is made which, although it is beautiful to look at, is very poisonous.

Liquorice drops are made for the trade of the poorest kind of sugar and lampblack, and merely flavored with liquorice. Twenty parts of liquorice and eighty per cent. of white earth are dexterously mixed, and sent to the South and West as pure liquorice. Traders do not hesitate to use the most virulent poisons to make pickles appear fresh and green; while it is a notorious fact that skilled persons can by a combination of drugs make almost any liquor known, and which will so nearly resemble the taste of the true article, that experts are deceived. To escape these impositions, it is not sufficient that a man has the utmost confidence in his grocer, for he, too, may be profoundly deceived. Let every family have the courage to make its own bread—even buying the grain in the berry, and grinding it with a hand-mill, if convenient; to prepare its own fruits; and as to every compound article of food which comes to the table, let it do its own mixing.—Phrenological Journal.

WOMEN AND TEA.—Much of the nervous unrest and over anxiety of the women of this generation is due to the excessive use of tea. "Our grandmothers" drank it and worked it off through the muscular system; but those of the age, with brain and nerves more sensitive, and engaged in pursuits which intensify this condition, are rendered more excitable by stimulants, which, under other circumstances, might be used with much less harm. Women who do much manual labor drink their tea, do their work, and sleep well; while those are very nervous and wakeful whose employments are sedentary, or such as induce more mental than muscular activity. I have known many of the latter class who lived largely upon their tea, eating little food and growing thin, sensitive, and sleepless, sharp in the face, sharp in the feeling, and often sharp in words too. Tea may be one of the good things when used to steady and strengthen the nervous system when depressed by accident, severe sickness, or overwork; but those who live on it live too fast, and when they have once come to rely upon it, feel weak and worthless without it, and with it grow more and more nervous still, wondering why, because they fancy their "breakfast tea" is as safe to be drank as new milk at all times of day and night. Black tea is less stimulating than green, consequently less injurious, but even this will not do for "victuals, drinks and lodging," as the Irishman said of his whisky.—Herald of Health.

The Trial of Surratt.

The arguments of counsel occupied the entire week. On Monday Mr. Carrington resumed the summing up for the prosecution and gave a careful review of the testimony. On Tuesday Mr. Carrington concluded his remarks, and Mr. Pierpont stated the legal points of the case. On Wednesday the summing up for the defence was commenced by Mr. Merrick. On Thursday Mr. Merrick concluded his argument, and in reviewing the testimony for the prosecution he said that statements made by witnesses had been contradicted in every essential particular. He also asserted that some of the witnesses against the prisoner had been instructed to testify as they did to serve certain political ends. On Friday Mr. Mr. Bradley, Sr., made his address and said that the prosecution had no right to indict the prisoner for the murder of President Lincoln, but of Abraham Lincoln, an ordinary individual. Mr. Bradley expressed his belief that the jury would render a verdict of not guilty without leaving their seats, and he also hoped that they would draw up a paper setting forth their belief in the innocence of Mrs. Surratt.

On Saturday, Mr. Pierpont addressed the jury on behalf of the prosecution. He had not yet concluded his remarks when the Court adjourned until Monday, when Mr. Pierpont will continue his remarks.

TUNNEL UNDER THE ATLANTIC.—A proposition is on foot to start the gigantic undertaking of running a tunnel under the Atlantic Ocean, in order to connect the New and Old World together by means of submarine railway. The most eminent engineers, both in America and Europe, have been consulted, and they have drawn up a report which is perfectly feasible and only requires time and money to carry out, while the capital, although stupendous, will be forthcoming. So far as calculated approximately, it will require five hundred million English pounds, or two billion five hundred million dollars. Plenty of capitalists are ready to engage in this marvellous undertaking, and as soon as the plans are arranged the money will be advanced. The proposed plans are in themselves the wonder of this skillful age of engineering science.—New York Home Journal.

AT Long Branch, last week, after dinner, in compliment to Gen. Grant, the health of "the Lieutenant-General" was proposed. Every ear was open for a speech, when Gen. Grant rose and said: "I am sorry that Lieutenant-General Sherman is not here to reply."

Meeting of the Republican State Convention at Richmond—The Platform of April Last Reaffirmed—Mr. Botts Not on Hand—Schism in the Republican Ranks.

RICHMOND, VA., August 1.—The Republican Convention met to-day in the African Church, at 12 o'clock. The negroes were present in tremendous force, filling every available inch of space in the building, and extending over the sidewalks for a considerable distance down the street. The heat was very trying, and told with such effect upon the speakers that a proposition was made, and very readily carried, that the assembly should adjourn to the Capitol square, where more air and space prevailed.

Delegates representing every possible shade of color were present from all parts of the State. Mr. Hunnicutt took the stand and made a long harangue, advising the negroes to look well to the organization of the Convention. Eventually he subsided, but more from the excessive temperature of the place than from any lack of didactic radicalism.

The steps of the Capitol were crowded, and immediately in front a vast mass of colored men was assembled. It became evident to the managers of the Convention that no business could be proceeded with in this open air gathering, as the speakers were hardly heard beyond the limits of the platform; therefore it was decided that one delegate from each town and county in the State be appointed to meet at the Republican Headquarters and organize the business of the Convention.

The delegates to the number of about one hundred, accordingly met, and quite a lively time ensued inspecting the antecedents of some of the elected delegates. Mr. Franklin Stearns, who bears the reputation of being one of the best Union men in Richmond, was rejected as a delegate from Henrico county, and a colored man named Swann put in his place. On examination it turned out that Stearns was elected by one hundred votes at a public meeting, while the other received the suffrages of nearly seven hundred black loyal Leaguers. After the decision was rendered Mr. Stearns spoke for a short time, contending that loyal Leagues were institutions of which the public knew nothing; that they were incorrect exponents of public opinion, being one sided in the extreme, and consequently that his exclusion was partial and unfair. Ultimately it was decided against Mr. Stearns, and he was forced to leave.

Mr. Stearns is the right hand man of John M. Botts, and the managers of the Convention were unmistakably bent upon nullifying the influence of Botts, and making it a purely black convention.

After deciding several other cases of admission to the Convention, the assembly dispersed to the Capitol Square, where considerable radical speechifying had been going on through out the day. Mr. Hunnicutt mounted the rostrum and spoke for over a half an hour, detailing the proceedings of the day, and asking to be endorsed in the course he had pursued.

It was finally moved by Mr. Botts, of Norfolk, that the platform of the 17th of April be re-adopted, which was done, the assembly acting unanimously in the matter.

A colored man named Dr. Daine, of Norfolk, and a half-drunken white man named Baker, occupied the attention of the assembly in the square until dark, discussing whether the Convention should adjourn till to-morrow or sine die. In the end it was decided by an overwhelming vote that the Convention should adjourn until to morrow at 10 o'clock.

The absence of Mr. Botts has been a subject of universal comment, and the inference generally deduced is that the Convention has suffered a split. Botts and his followers will go in for a white man's convention.—N. Y. Herald.

MORMON PROSPECTS.—Referring to the recent arrival of about four hundred Mormon emigrants, the New York Tribune says:—"By all accounts it seems certain that they will find their paradise in a sad turmoil when they get to it, and the saints in a most ungodly rumpus. The schism to which we alluded a short time ago has become so wide, and has made such an ugly wound, that there is little prospect of its ever being healed. Brigham Young is boldly denounced. His followers have ceased to obey him; his adversaries set him at defiance. When he falls, the keystone of the Mormon structure is overthrown. The Latter-Day Church cannot outlast its great prophet. It is said that Young is about to remove to the newly discovered gold mines of Utah; but we are loth to believe that he so quickly gives up the fight, and it is more probable that he will make a determined stand at his capital. At any rate, the Mormon difficulty, which has perplexed us for so many years, seems to be rapidly solving itself without our assistance. In another generation we may hope to see the polygamists of the great plains quietly absorbed by a law-abiding and industrious race of new settlers. If they withstand the combined influences of internal discord, the Pacific railway, and the tide of immigration which will be attracted to Utah by the discovery of gold in the Territory, they will show a stability and strength of character to which history affords no parallel."

IT has been estimated that the number of Catholics in the United States in 1830 was 450,000; in 1840 it was 960,000, and 4,400,000 in 1860. According to these estimates the Catholics double in number every ten years, and in '70 we shall have eight or nine million, or nearly one-fifth of the whole population. Seventy-five years ago the United States did not have a single Catholic Bishop. The first Bishopric was established in Baltimore in 1799; and now they have seven Archbishops, 30 Bishops, 61 Archpriests, 3,833 Priests, 72 seminaries, 1,400 schools, 3,000 churches, besides other institutions and property estimated at $37,000,000.

AN English writer says that the diamond mines are giving out, and that very few of the precious stones now sold are genuine. The spurious stones are well made, and frequently deceive the most skillful connoisseurs.

George Francis Train on Woman Suffrage.

The following characteristic letter was addressed to the Woman Suffrage Association of St. Louis on their request for Mr. Train to lecture there for their cause, and to stump Kansas next fall:

Cottage by the Sea, Newport R. I. July 15, 1867.—Dear Mrs. W. T. Hazard, Woman's Suffrage Association, St. Louis:—Mankind means womankind also. "The mothers of France make the men," said Bonaparte. Why should not the mothers, the wives, the daughters of America help make her statesmen? Virtue and vices are stereotyped during the tender days of youth. Place a straw across the rivulet, and how crooked becomes the river. Sear the sapling, and you gnarl the oak. When woman vote their children will be taught patriotism and their country's laws. How often men take credit for that which belongs to women. Should not women, who manage their own business so well, assist in saving the nation?

Instinctively—Intuitively—Woman arrives at conclusions which man gains by reflection and reason. One of the absurdities of our poetical age is likening women to angels. A woman with wings, in a drawing room, would create a sensation! No woman is complimented by calling her a Venus. Venus was the Goddess of Love—not of Virtue.

Men need refining. Let woman fulfil her God-like mission. She is nobler, purer, better than man. Society is unjustly organized. Man escapes censure and punishment for acts that damn the woman. Is this right? Let her vote, and the reformation begins.

I told the Senators on Pilot Knob that "Woman would purify the polls. They would vote down houses of bad repute. Would vote down faro banks, vote down, groggeries, shut up the rum shops, and close the gin palaces." "What, Mr. Train," said a Fifth avenue lady to me, "would you drag our fair women down the Bowery, to be polluted by coming in contact with the drunken orgies of a contested election?" "Most certainly not. I would have the Bowery throw away its pipe and whisky bottle, and dress itself in its Sunday clothes, and vote in the lady's parlor." Often the uneducated is more gentlemanly in a lady's presence than the so called gentleman. Men that become debased in the society of men become elevated in the society of women.

We have deprived woman of her embroidery, her tapestry, and her needle; next she will lose her sewing machine. What else has she to occupy her mind? Novels, gossip, and the rearing of children. Give her a vote to protect her property, and ambition is aroused, and woman will take her place as the true reformer.

As my word is my bond, I say Yes to the St. Louis lecture, and Yes to stumping Kansas. Let our election cry in this noble cause be—"Women—they should be united—to a man!"

Sincerely, GEORGE F. TRAIN.

The Tennessee Election.

Governor Brownlow Re-elected by Thirty Thousand Majority—Complete Success of the Radical Ticket—Radical Negroes Discharged by Conservative Employers.

NASHVILLE, Tennessee, August 2.—Further returns indicate a majority of at least thirty thousand for Governor Brownlow. The other radical candidates were elected.

A large number of negroes have been discharged by conservative employers for voting the radical ticket. They have been immediately given work in the Headquarter's Department. General Carlin will to-morrow publish the names of all such employers. He has issued a circular to the Bureau agents throughout the State to assist the discharged freedmen, and also compel a settlement of accounts with them by their late employers.

The Election at Chattanooga—A Flag Captured from the Conservatives by Radicals at Kingston.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., August 2.—All the necessary preparations were made by the city authorities yesterday to preserve the peace. The polls opened at 8 o'clock, and the colored League, organized in masse, formed in column at the polling place, till noon, when six hundred and eighty-nine votes had been cast, and nearly all the negroes had voted. Certificates were furnished by the League to many negroes from Georgia, who voted the radical ticket. The negro vote was cast for the Radicals. The Metropolitan Police distributed radical tickets to negroes. The straight radical tickets were stamped with a broadaxe, meaning that the axe is laid at the root of the tree. This was done to prevent counterfeiting, and for the benefit of such negroes as could not read.

The utmost order and good feeling prevailed all day and night, and there was no intoxication. The whites who were not radicals held no conversation with the negroes, but let them have their own way.

The whole number of votes cast in the city is 925. Brownlow received 820. Etheridge 95.

Etheridge and Maynard spoke at Kingstone on Wednesday. Colonel Byrd, a conservative, had the flag of his old regiment, the first Tennessee Infantry, on the stand while Etheridge was speaking. After the speaking was done the radicals captured the flag for their stand. The conservatives formed to charge and retake the flag, but were prevented by Etheridge. No other disturbance took place. All was quiet at last accounts, but the flag has not yet been returned.

SHERIDAN'S REMOVAL.—Considerable surprise has been expressed at the non-issuance of the order relieving General Sheridan. The delay is not explained, notwithstanding the positive assurances of the President that the order would be issued this week. General Grant has had long interviews with the President in a day or two, which may serve to explain the delay.

THE number of foreign residents in China and Japan is steadily increasing. In Hong Kong, according to a census taken in 1866, there are now 2,113 Europeans and Americans in a total population of 115,008. The old anti-foreign party in these two countries is entirely powerless and almost extinct.

RAILROADS FIFTY SIX YEARS AGO.—The following letter, in reply to a suggestion about railroads, written over fifty years ago, by Chancellor Livingston, who had associated with his brother-in-law, Robert Fuller, in application of steam to vessels, shows the state of improvement in that day:

ALBANY, March 1, 1811.

Dear Sir: I did not till yesterday receive yours of the 25th of February: where it has loitered on the road I am at a loss to say. I had before read of your very ingenious proposition as to railroad communication. I fear, however, on mature reflection, that they will be liable to serious objection, and ultimately more expensive than a canal. They must be double, so as to prevent the danger of two such heavy bodies meeting. The walls on which they are placed must be at least four feet below the surface, and three above, and must be clamped down with iron, and even then would hardly sustain so heavy a weight as you propose moving at the rate of four miles an hour on wheels. As to wood it would not last a week. They must be covered with iron, and that, too, very thick and strong. The means of stopping these heavy carriages without a shock, and preventing them from running on each other—for there would be many running on the road at once—would be very difficult. In case of accidental stops, or necessary stops to take wood or water, &c., many accidents would happen. The carriage of condensing water would be very troublesome. Upon the whole, I fear the expense would be much greater than that of canals without being so convenient.

A FRENCH HEROINE.—The inhabitants of Beauvais, the chief town of the Department of the Oise, France, have just celebrated the aniversary of their heroine, Jeanne Hatchette, popularly known as the "Fete of the Assault." Beauvais was besieged in 1472, when Charles the bold of Burgundy was at war with Louis XI. The besieged were exhausted, and on the point of giving way, when the women of Beauvais, armed with pikes, staves tipped with iron, and such other weapons as they could lay their hands on, mounted the ramparts under the guidance of an intrepid young woman named Jeanne Laine, better known as "Hachette," from the weapon which she used. Jeanne caught the Burgundian standard, which the enemy were about to plant on the wall, struck down with her hatchet the officer who held it, and hurled him into the ditch below.

The example of the courageous girl inspired her townsmen with fresh courage, and the result was that the troops of Burgundy were repulsed with great slaughter, and the siege had to be raised. In commemoration of the conduct of Jeanne and her intrepid companions, Louis XI ordered that in the fete to be celebrated every year in Beauvais the women should take precedence of the men. The King also ordered that, by "reason of her great courage," she should be married to one Collin Pillon; and by an edict, dated February 1473, that the said Collin Pillon and his wife Jeanne should be exempt from the payment of imposts of every kind levied throughout his kingdom, in whatsoever part of it they happened to reside.

AN UNUSUAL SURGICAL OPERATION.—On Tuesday, the 6th inst., Anna, a five year old child of Samuel Cassel, of South Easton, swallowed a shawl pin, the pin being several inches long, and the head of it almost an inch around. She had thoughtlessly put the pin in her mouth, through which it slipped backward. The mother of the child thrust a finger into its throat, which motion, instead of producing the desired result, worked the pin forward into the windpipe. Violent paroxysms of coughing followed, but as the child had moments of comparative ease, the parents postponed an operation, which was advised at first. The paroxysms became more severe, the face was of a purple color, and the breathing so labored that it could be heard at a considerable distance. Her suffering may be imagined. She begged for relief, and desired the operation. The case was given into the charge of Drs. Innes, G. B. Slough, and Field. An operation afforded the only hope of recovery. It was performed by Dr. Field, assisted by Drs. Slough and Innes, in the presence of medical students and neighbors. Chloroform was given, an incision made along the middle line of the neck, and the windpipe opened to within an inch of the breastbone. The proper instruments were then introduced, and the pin was found imbedded in the division of the windpipe that goes to the right lung. It was removed, and may be seen on inquiry. The little patient, thus snatched from death, will soon be entirely free from the effects of the operation.—Easton Express.

MAXIMILIAN'S WILL.—A letter from Vienna to the Paris "Liberte" contains the following statement of a curious testamentary arrangement between Maximilian and Carlotta:

Two wills, perfectly analogous, were drawn up by the Emperor and Empress. Each of them, in case there was no issue of the marriage, leaves all the property to the survivor. Thus, Maximilian being dead, his fortune, estimated at from ten to twelve millions of florins, only calculating his property at Miramar, Lacroma, and the artistic wealth collected there, reverts to the Empress Carlotta. The will of Maximilian is there to attest it.

But now comes the strange affair. It is asserted that the Empress Carlotta's written with her own hand, and which was carefully locked up in one of the rooms at Miramar, has suddenly disappeared, nobody knows how or where. From that circumstance it results that, as the Empress Carlotta has no will and is not in a state to make one, seeing the almost complete absence of her mental faculty, all her fortune, including the part coming from her husband, the Emperor Maximilian, and which ought in justice, after her death, revert to the Austian imperial family, will now legally fall to the royal one of Belgium.

THE sherry wine merchants at Cadiz have told our Consul that "the stuff sent to the United States was not sherry at all, but slops used to wash out the tubs and for other dirty work about the stills."

LITTLE "All Right" is not dead, and on that you may safely bet. He lives, the best advertised Jap in the world.

A TELEGRAPH STORY.—The Telegraphper remarks that a somewhat singular cause of trouble on the telegraph line was recently discovered by Mr. S. C. Hendrickson while making an inspection of the Sandy Hook wire This wire uses the Lofforts block insulators, and it was found that the fish hawks which abound in that vicinity had made use of the block as a convenient resting place where upon to tear in pieces and devour their prey. The entrails and refuse of the fish had formed a solid mass, in many instances covering the insulator and adjacent wire, causing a great amount of 'escape' in wet weather. It has been found necessary to substitute the glass and bracket insulator, which will improve the working of the line, though at the expense of considerable inconvenience to the fish hawks. The wires are also found in many instances in the sea coast to be completely incrusted with salt, deposited from the spray of the surf."

BOQUETS.—The following may be of interest to the ladies: When you receive a boquet sprinkle it lightly with fresh water; then put it in a vessel containing soap suds; this will nutrify the stem and keep the flowers as bright as new. Take the boquet out of the suds every morning and lay it sideways (the stock entering first) into clean water. Keep it there a minute or two, then take it out and sprinkle the flowers lightly by the hand with water; replace it in the soap suds and it will bloom as fresh as when first gathered. The soap suds need changing every three or four days. By observing these rules a boquet may be kept bright and beautiful for at least a month, and will last still longer in a very passable state but attention of the fair creatures, as directed above, must be observed, or all will perish.

SINGULAR TEST.—There is a curious ordeal in India, which shows the action of fear upon the salivary glands. If a wrong is committed the suspected persons are got together, and each is required to keep a quantity of rice is in his mouth for a certain time and then put it out again; and, with the greatest certainty, any man who had done the deed puts it out almost dry, in consequence of the fear of his mind keeping back the saliva.

Brief Items.

—The Lutheran and German Reformed Sunday School pic-nics, held last week, passed off pleasantly.

—August Court commences next Monday. We want those of our patrons indebted to us to give us a call and make a payment of arrearages.—All are invited to give us a friendly call.

—B. R. Foust has been appointed P. M. at Mill Creek, to fill vacancy occasioned by the death of P. O. Etchison; and W. A. Fraker has been appointed P. M. at Shirleysburg vice John Lutz.

—Improvements still going on in West Huntingdon, and in every direction in the old town; the latter must look to its laurels, so keep the ball in motion.

—Some fifty members of the Masonic lodge of this place, accompanied by the Silver band, visited Bellefonte on Thursday last, on the occasion of dedicating a new hall there.

—We understand that Rev. Mr. Piannett, of Mill Creek, has accepted the call of the Baptist congregation of this place, and will commence preaching here in a short time.

—Another paper is talked of for Tyrone, to be edited by M. H. Jolly, Esq. We shall look for it, and hope to keep looking for it for a long time to come—after it starts.

—Standing Stone Lodge of Good Templars, of this place, will hold a pic nic at Pleasant Grove on the B. T. Railroad, on Friday next. A large number of the cold-waterites are expected to attend, and a joyous time is anticipated.

—A snake was killed one day last week, while crawling through one of our principal streets, viewing the town no doubt; or perhaps hunting a nest. We did not learn whether it was a copperhead, black-snake, or racer; therefore we can not tell what its death might omen.

—Mary, a little daughter of Mr. Wm. Orbison, Jr., of this place, was scalded on Tuesday last. The nurse had taken a tin-full of boiling milk off the stove, which the child spilled upon her face and breast by giving her arm a jerk, thereby badly burning herself.—Dr. Neff alleviated her suffering.

—The call for a County Temperance Union will be seen in another column. As the meeting having this worthy object in view will be held on Monday next, the action of churches, academies, seminaries, and temperance societies, should be prompt, so that there may be a full turn out.

—The oil fever, long since collapsed, has broken out afresh near Ebensburg, where a party of capitalists are about sinking a well two miles distant from the town. We hope the well will not be so deep as to drain the contents of their pocket books, as that would be something very unusual in these times of great changes.

—Calicoes are at a discount and silks at a premium in "ye ancient borough." Let those who don't believe it, (bachelors especially,) come and see our misses on a Sunday afternoon, or in the sanctuary. The storekeepers don't care for expenses, and some of the young men's hearts are evidently playing "bide and go seek."

—We have heard the following amusing incident, which transpired recently in this place. A young man, fresh from Germany, happening to see a funeral procession wending its way to the cemetery, exclaimed to a friend, "See, there goes another pic-nic." It was some time before he could be made to know the difference between a pic nic and a funeral.

—Our friends of the Mount Union Times complain of being guzzled by C. F. Shutts & Co., a bogus advertising firm of Troy, N. Y. We received a kind invitation from the same firm, but like the prudent miss, we respectfully declined, as they were not known to us, and the consequence is we have no sorry tune to pipe over. Experience has taught us many a useful lesson.

—Friend R. B. Brown, of the Clarion Democrat, returned home to his family from the labors of the day to find that affairs had come to a "cry-sis," as he expresses it, but such a one as made his heart go pit-a-pat with gladness—We congratulate Robert on his good fortune. In this connection we may also add that neighbor Cornman, of the Monitor, to friend Brown, of the Democrat, sends greeting. Forshtay?

—A band of four negro minstrels visited our town last week, and such was the encouragement they met with from our citizens that they remained four or five nights, playing at the hotels and giving an occasional serenade. We learn that they were from the South. We heard many encomiums passed upon their music, but as they looked more for money than praise they could tell better how they were appreciated.

—"Blessed be the man who first invented sleep," quoth Sancho Panza; but did the inventor ever get any pecuniary benefit from his invention.—This is what an "early bird" said when he looked upon our streets at four o'clock on a bright Sunday morning. If the inventor was anything but a shoemaker he couldn't make much, as nothing but shoe leather suffers by early rising.

To the Friends of Temperance in Huntingdon County:

From all sections of our State, as well as our common country, comes the manifestations of awakened interest among the people in the cause of Temperance, and the determination expressed by renewed labors to lessen the personal degradation, poverty, pauperism, and crime produced by intemperance, and to suppress the traffic in intoxicating liquors, the prolific parent of these evils. The men engaged in the liquor traffic, supported by appetite, love of gain, and large pecuniary resources, perceiving that the success of the Temperance cause will be the death of their business, have convened, and will strenuously resist the movement. It has, therefore, become more necessary than ever for the friends of Temperance to combine for concerted action.

At the State Temperance Convention held at Harrisburg, on the 26th and 27th of February last, it was resolved that,

WHEREAS, The Temperance work is now carried on by a variety of organizations and instrumentalities, acting separately and independently of each other, but animated by a common faith and laboring for a common end;

AND WHEREAS, It is deemed advisable, for the utmost efficiency, that a union should be formed, which, whilst leaving each organization free to labor in its favorite method, shall be the recognized representative of all, and form a common bond and a common channel through which the influence of all may be felt in the work of temperance reform. Therefore, an organization named the Pennsylvania State Temperance Union was by the convention authorized and perfected. By means of Temperance Unions in each county, it is intended to carry with increased vigor the principles of Temperance to every portion of the State, and submit them to the enlightened judgment of the people. The undersigned, desirous to form a "Union" that shall prove a common centre to promote unity of action among the friends of Temperance in Huntingdon county, do most earnestly invite all the Churches, Colleges, Seminaries, Academies, lodges of Good Templars, Sons of Temperance, Temple of Honor, and all Temperance organizations who hold and teach "total obstinence" from the use of intoxicating drinks as a beverage to be a right practice, and the prohibition in the traffic in such drinks to be the right and duty of the State, to meet by delegates in convention, in Huntingdon, on the 12th of August (Monday) at 2 o'clock, P. M., for the purpose of forming a Huntingdon County Temperance Union, and to consult and devise plans for the promotion of the cause of Temperance in the said county.

The Churches, Colleges, and Temperance organizations, &c., above named, are requested to send delegates from each, not exceeding ten in number, and all friends of Temperance who may not thus be represented, are also cordially invited to be present and participate in the convention. Let all friends of morality and Temperance take immediate steps on the reception of this invitation, to cause delegations to be formed, that the convention may fully represent the cause in the aforesaid county; and "God, even our God, will bless us."

Political.

Sergt. M. M. Logan, of Orbisonia, is announced as a candidate for county treasurer. Sergeant Logan received fourteen wounds while in the service of his country.

Mr. David Dunn, of this place, is being urged by his numerous friends as a candidate for nomination by the Republican party. Mr. Dunn would make a talking member.

Kirk Haines, one of the Senators from this District, has been set aside by his own county, Perry. The Republican Convention of that county declared in favor of nominating the candidates from the other counties. Mr. Hall's chances for nomination still look good. Haines was a Curtin man, but was influenced to "point up" for Simon in the struggle for U. S. Senator, last winter.

Jackson Lamberson, of Tod township, is announced as a candidate for County Commissioner, subject to the decision of the Republican county convention.

A Strange Couple.

We hear that a party, consisting of a man and would be wife, stopped at one of our hotels recently, and lived in great style, and threw out the impression that they had plenty of money to back them. Shortly after "putting up," the gentleman left for Altoona, and while there wrote to his lady to meet him at that place. She at once repaired thither, but he had suddenly disappeared. A policeman from Pittsburgh came to the hotel here where they had been stopping, and inquired after the parties; but the object of his mission further than that was not ascertained. It is supposed, however, the man has been guilty of forgery, and has taken a wife for the time being to help him spend the money. The woman is said to be from Davenport, Iowa, and the man from Pittsburgh. We have not heard of either man, woman or policeman since.

☞ A woman named Miss Annie Logan Smeal resorted to the shop-lifting game in Hollidaysburg, in the following novel manner: She entered a store and purchased fifty dollars worth of silks, together with some sugar and other articles. After placing the articles in a carpet bag, apparently, she complained of feeling unwell, and said she would go to a friend's and get a cup of tea, and then return and pay the bill, which was about $75. She left the bag and went out; but she had not gone long until the storekeeper suspected her, and on opening the bag saw nothing but the sugar, the silks having disappeared. He had her arrested at Altoona and the stolen goods were recovered. Her parents reside seven miles from Philipsburg.

Children and Newspapers.

A child beginning to read becomes delighted with a newspaper, because he reads of names and things which are very familiar, and he will make progress accordingly. A newspaper in one year, says an eminent teacher, is worth a quarter's schooling to a child, and every father must consider that substantial information is connected with his advancement The mother of the family, being one of its needs, and having a more immediate charge of the children, should herself be instructed. A mind occupied becomes fortified against the ills of life, and is braced for any emergency. Children amused by reading or study are, of course, considerate and more easily governed. How many thoughtless young men have spent their earnings in a tavern or grogshop, who ought to have been reading! How many parents who never spent twenty dollars for books for their families would gladly have given thousands to reclaim a son or daughter who had ignorantly and thoughtlessly fallen into temptation.

Opera Troupe Coming.

Charley Stuart's young Opera Troupe will give a series of entertainments at the Castilian Garden, commencing on Tuesday evening next, August 13th. The Troupe give a varied and entertaining programme and the public can rest assured that nothing but chaste and select pieces, strictly moral, will be presented. The Troupe is highly spoken of wherever it has exhibited, and none have witnessed the performances without being amused as well as entertained. The price of admission is 25 cents for adults, and 15 cents for children.

Cheap Ice Pitchers.

The following simple mode of keeping ice water for a long time in a common pitcher, is worth knowing:

Place between two sheets of paper (newspaper will answer, thick brown is better) a layer of cotton batting, about an inch in thickness, fasten the ends of paper and batting together, forming a circle, then sew or paste a crown over one end, making a box the shape of a stove pipe hat minus the rim. Place this over an ordinary pitcher filled with ice-water—making it deep enough to rest on the table, so as to exclude the air—and the reader will be astonished at the length of time his ice will keep, and the water remain cold after the ice is melted.

Meteors Expected.

Another meteoric shower is expected by astronomers on the evenings of August 9th and 10th. It is said that it will not be a very brilliant exhibition, but such as it is we hope every one will reap the advantages of. As superstitious folks say it is "bad luck" to tell about a shooting star, we suppose there will be nothing more said. Editors, however, are thought to be almost anything but superstitious, and we rather think they would have that fault also if they did not have to tell everything they see or hear. If we see the meteors, our readers may expect a display.

☞ Who says ice-cream can't be baked. We never thought it could until we found the following in an exchange, and are now waiting to see it tried. The Japanese of Paris, it is said, have taught the cooks at the Grand Hotel the secret of baking ice creams. Freeze your ice as hard as possible, wrap it quickly in a very thin crust of pastry, and put it in the oven. The pastry will be baked before the ice melts (for pastry is a good non-conductor of heat); serve hot and you may enjoy the pleasure of eating hot pastry and ice cream at the same time.

☞ The Johnstown Tribune has been selected as one of two newspapers in this State in which the public Acts and Resolutions of Congress and also all public foreign Treaties entered into and ratified by the United States are to be published. The Tribune thinks it is a very distinguishing honor, and so do we. The member of Congress from this District must be a little more impartial, however, in the distribution of his patronage, if he don't wish to offend our Journal & American neighbors. They have an eye for such things, and we might say it is a mighty jealous one, too.

Meyer's Pianos.

The above celebrated Piano received a premium at the world's great exhibition in London in 1851, since which time the Piano has not been exhibited at any Exhibition. The tone throughout is even, of great beauty and power, from the lowest note to the highest. Prof. Hugh Coyle, of this place, is the Agent for this instrument, and will be happy to receive calls.

St. John's Episcopal Church.

The Right Rev. Bishop Stevens is expected to preach in this Church next Monday evening. Service at a quarter before 8 o'clock. There will also be regular services next Sunday morning and afternoon.

BEALE'S

Late Powell's Embrocation,

For all Diseases Incident to HORSES, CATTLE, and the HUMAN FLESH,

Requiring the use of an External Application.

This new Compound, prepared by a practical Chemist, having a full knowledge of all the medical virtues of each ingredient that enters into its composition, is warranted to exceed anything of the kind ever yet offered to the Public as an external application for the diseases for which it is recommended. We are satisfied that it will work its own road into the confidence of all who use it, and those who try it once will never be without it, and therefore we rely on experience as the best test of its usefulness. It is pronounced by Farriers, and all who have tried it to be the best application ever used. This Embrocation has been put up for over eight years, and it is only through the increasing demand and urgent request of my friends and the Public that I send it forth as the grand remedial agent for the various diseases to which that noble and useful animal, the horse, is subject

Many remedies have been offered to the Public under different forms, some of these are injurious, others at best of little use, and many wholly improper to answer the purposes for which they are recommended.

A judicious and really useful composition, free from those objections, has therefore long been desired by many gentlemen who have valuable horses, and are unwilling to trust them to the care of designing and pretended Farriers. Their wishes are at length fully gratified, by Dr. Beale being prevailed upon to allow this valuable Embrocation (which has proved so effectious to the various diseases) to be prepared and brought out to the public.

This Embrocation was extensively used by the Government during the war.

Address all Orders to Dr. EDMUND BEALE,

LATEST FASHIONS DEMAND

J. W. Bradley's Celebrated Patent

Duplex Elliptic

or Double Spring,

SKIRT.

The wonderful Flexibility and great comfort and pleasure to any lady wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt will be experienced particularly in all crowded assemblies, operas, carriages, railroad cars, church pews, arm chairs, for promenade and house dress, as the skirt can be folded when in use to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as a silk or muslin dress, an invaluable quality in crinoline, not found in any single spring skirt.

A lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort, and great convenience of wearing the duplex elliptic steel spring skirt for a single day, will never afterwards willingly dispense with their use. For children, misses and young ladies they are superior to all others.

They will not bend or break like the single spring but will preserve their perfect and graceful shape when three or four ordinary skirts will have been thrown aside as useless. The hoops are covered with cambic and twisted thread, and the bottom rods are not only double springs, but twice (or double) covered; preventing them from wearing out when dragging down stoops, stairs, &c.

The Duplex Elliptic is a great favorite with all ladies and is universally recommended by the Fashion Magazines as the standard skirt of the fashionable world.

To enjoy the following inestimable advantages in crinolines, viz: superior quality, perfect manufacture, stylish shape and finish, flexibility, durability, comfort and economy, enquire for J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic, or double spring skirt, and be sure you get the genuine article.

CAUTION—To guard against imposition in particular to notice that skirts offered as "Duplex" have the red ink stamp, viz: J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic Steel Springs upon the waist band—none others are genuine. Also, notice

Thoughts for the Farmer.

The Bright Side.

The wise man never stops to brood over evils real or imaginary. Many persons suffer all their misfortunes in double or triple magnitude by merely nursing their wrath. Oftentimes they endure all their pains of death in giving rein to their imagination. A cheerful heart that in the sorest afflictions reflects how much better things are than they might have been, is a priceless treasure to its possessor. A certain good natured old Vermont farmer was once noted for possessing his equanimity; no matter what happened to disturb it, and the following anecdote is related in illustration of his enviable faculty:

The black tongue prevailed in the State. His own neighborhood suffered from the effects of the plague. One of his men entered the house, bearing the news that one of his red oxen was dead. "Is he?" said the old man, "well he was an unruly case. Take off his hide and carry it down to Fletcher's; it will bring the cash." In another hour or so the man came back with the news that the "lime-backs" were both dead. "Are they?" said the old man; "well, I took them from B——— to save a debt that I never expected to get; it's lucky it isn't the brindle. Take their hides down to Fletcher's—they'll bring the cash." After the lapse of an hour more, the man returned to tell him the brindle was dead. "Is he?" said the old philosopher; well he was a very old ox.—Take off his hide and take it down to Fletcher's; it's worth the cash, and will bring more than any two of the others." Hereupon his wife, taking upon herself the office of Eliphaz, reprimanded her husband severely, asking him if he was not aware that his loss was a judgment of heaven upon him on account of his wickedness. "Is it?" said the old fellow; "well if they will take the judgment in cattle, it's the easiest way I can pay it."

CANNING FRUIT.— First—Can the fruit the same day it is gathered. More than half the secret of having fine preserved fruit lies in this simple direction.

Second.—Never can fruit without adding as much sugar to it as you would to prepare it for the table.—This is imperative, else your fruit will inevitably be leathery; cook it in, I should say, at the rate of one-quarter of a pound to every pound of fruit, at least; but taste and try, as I did, and when it suits your palate cease from all saccharine matter.

And now for the modus operandi:—Pare and extract the pit; cut into halves and plunge into cold water until ready to cook, else your peaches will be black; this, of course, does not apply to other kinds of fruit. Place your cans in any vessel where they can stand at least half way up in boiling hot water, which keep so until sealed. I usually take a large dripping-pan and put it on the top of the stove at one side, while my preserving kettle is on the other. Make your syrup and when it comes to a boil, put in your peaches and let them cook (if clings) until you can pierce with a piece of broom corn; if free-stones, when the syrup boils up over them the first time, skim out and put into the cans. When the latter are full of peaches, fill up with boiling hot syrup, wipe off the tops with a rag wet with cold water, being careful that no juice remains on them, then put on the covers, remove from the water to the stove hearth, and seal.

THE DILIGENT WOMAN.—She riseth in the morning betimes, and as the lark singeth to his mate, so she maketh a joyful noise in all her house.

She maketh up her bed; and beateth the pillows thereof; and like as an eagle stirreth up her nest, so she stirreth up the feathers, and spreadeth out the sheets, and layeth the blankets apart.

She layeth her hand to the wash-tub rubbeth upon the board, making clean the fine linen; her hands take fast hold of the wringer, and by turning the crank the water thereof is pressed out.

She clotheth her family with pure garments, when she has made them smooth with a hot iron, and by reason thereof her husband is made comely when he sitteth among the chief men, or walketh in the market-places.

She kneadeth up her dough and baketh a goodly cake for her household, and to every one she giveth a piece of bread and butter of kine.

She provideth her dinner in due season, and supper faileth not when the good man returneth at the end of the day, weary with his labors and the strife of men.

She looketh well to the ways of her house, and scorneth the idle woman, with her delicate hands, who lieth in bed and calleth a servant.

☞ Twelve quarts of soot in a hogshead of water will make a powerful liquid manure, which will improve the growth of flowers, garden vegetables, or root crops. In either a liquid or solid state it makes an excellent top-dressing for grass or cereal crops.

☞ It takes 250 bushels of potatoes to make a ton of starch.

PROF. H. M'ENTYRE'S GREAT REMEDY,

THE

INDIAN COMPOUND

Internal and External Medicine,

WILL CURE:

☞ Diarrhœa, Bloody Flux in one day,
☞ Headache and Earache in three minutes.
☞ Toothache in one minute.
☞ Neuralgia in five minutes,
☞ Sprains in twenty minutes,
☞ Sore Throat in ten minutes,
☞ Cholic and Cramp in five minutes,
☞ Rheumatism in one day,
☞ Pain in the Back or Side in ten minutes,
☞ Bad Coughs or Colds in one day,
☞ Fever and Ague in one day.
☞ Cures Deafness, Asthma, Piles,
☞ Bronchitis Affections, Dyspepsia,
☞ Inflammation of the Kidneys, Erysipelas,
☞ Liver Complaint and Palpitation of the Heart.

Keep it in your Families—Sickness comes when least expected.

I propose to check, and effectually dissipate more ache and pain, and to accomplish more perfect equilibrium of all the circulating fluids in the human system, than can be effected by any other, or all other methods of medical aid in the same space of time.

THIS POPULAR REMEDY is fast coming into use, for the fact that I cure, free of charge, all those complaints whenever there is an opportunity to do so. As soon as it is applied it almost miraculously kills the pain. I do not ask you to buy before you are certain of its efficiency. If you have no ache or pain, it is warranted to do all it purports on the label.

I do not propose to cure every disease—only a class named by my directions. My liniment operates on chemical and electric principles, and is, therefore applicable, to the cure or natural restorative of all cases of derangement arising from an improper circulation of the nerve vital fluids.

Prof. J. H. McEntyre's INDIAN COMPOUND acts directly on the absorbents, reducing glandular and other swellings in incredible short time, without any possible danger from its use under any possible circumstances.

This is an internal and external medicine—composed of roots, herbs and barks, such as our forefathers used.—There is a bountiful supply on earth to cure all complaints if we only know what they were.

This has been a great study with the Medical Faculty for many years, to find out the kinds best adapted to the above complaints—how to put them together, and what proportions to use.

J. H. McENTYRE,
Proprietor, Reading, Pa.

PHOTOGRAPH

PATENT APPLIED FOR.

Hitherto there has been nothing introduced in way of a Marriage Certificate that has excited any interest or attraction: but the originators of the PHOTOGRAPH MARRIAGE CERTIFICATE claim that they have gotten up something that will be most heartily welcomed by all persons now married and all those who contemplate marriage.

Size and Plan of the Marriage Certificate.

The size of the Certificate is 19 by 14 inches. It contains a beautiful figure representing the union of two hearts. Above the figure is written in beautifully ornamented German Text the words "Photograph Marriage Certificate." There are three spaces in the figure: on the space in the center the Certificate proper is written. The words, "two hearts in one" form an arch over the Certificate proper, and immediately under the arch there is a beautiful figure representing the joining of hands, and where the centre space comes to a point there is a picture of two beautiful turtle doves. On the space to the left there is a place for the photograph of the gentleman and under it we have the words, "To the Husband," in ornamental text, under which we have selections of Scripture passages addressed to the husband. On the left side of the engraving we have a place for the Photograph of the wife. Immediately under which we have the words, "To the Wife," in ornamental text, under which are appropriate passages of Scripture addressed to the wife. Over the space for the photograph of gentleman we have written in Old English characters, the following appropriate passage of Scripture: "It is not good that the man should be alone," and over the space for the photograph of the lady, we have the corresponding words: "I will make him an help meet for him." At the lower extension of the figure of the hearts, we have the hearts bound together or encircled in part by these words: "What therefore God hath joined together let no man put asunder." The Certificate is so constructed that card photographs of both bride and bridegroom can be inserted without the least possible difficulty. Indeed everything connected with it is so elegant, attractive and desirable that many single persons seeing the Certificate have been so much pleased with its appearance, that they purchased on sight one of these beautiful parlor ornaments.

A specimen copy of the Photograph Marriage Certificate will be carefully put up and sent by mail free, on receipt of the retail price, which is ONE DOLLAR.
